Välkommen till seminarium med professor Charles Husband

Professor Charles Husband has a long history of research and publication in the areas of the nature and expression of racisms, diversity and the media, and ethnic relations. He has had a sustained commitment to relating social science research and theory to the development of practical policy initiatives.

He is a Visiting Professor at the Sami University College in Kautokeino, Norway where he is actively engaged with colleagues in the development and delivery of an innovatory International Masters programme in ‘Indigenous Journalism’.

He is also a Docent in Sociology at the University of Helsinki, and Professor Emeritus in Social Analysis at the University of Bradford.

His recent publications include:

Varmt välkomna!